THOUSANDS GATHER AT OKLAHOMA CITY FOR INAUGURATION

THREE DAY PROGRAM STARTS AT NOON WHEN OATH IS ADMINISTERED

STATE HOUSE WILL BE FIVE STORY BALLROOM

Blanketed Indians and Cowboys Feature in Festivities of the Occasion

By Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, OKLA., Jan. 8.—Oklahoma City was the mecca for tens of thousands of persons today as the hour drew near for the beginning of Governor-elect J. C. Walton's inaugural celebration.

In airplanes, automobiles, railroad trains and interurban cars people came, constantly augmenting the swirling mass of holiday seekers on the down town streets. Even the lowly ox cart was pressed into service as a means of transportation for the pioneers.

The festivities began with a barbecue yesterday when crowds converged at the state fair grounds to observe the ancient rite. long barbecue pits filled with tons of firewood which was set afire early yesterday morning, to insure great beds of live coals, and scorched stones over which will be cooked fourteen varieties of meat. The feast will be ready to serve tomorrow at noon.

The three day program will start with a luncheon today when the Governor-elect is administered the oath of office by a joint session of the legislature. This afternoon and tonight the statehouse will be converted into a monster five story ballroom and for the first time its rotunda will echo the blare of jazz orchestras combined with the more stately strains of old time fiddles playing the Virginia Reel and other pre-twentieth century terpsichorean steps.

Fifty dances will be dances to suit the choice of all ages and classes—the fox trot for the flippant and smooth dances of yesterday to minuet for grandfather and grandmother—to use Governor Walton's own description. After a parade tomorrow which will move at 2 o'clock the governor will again take the oath, this time before the public. He will deliver his inaugural address from a platform erected for the purpose at the fair grounds.

Painted Indians wearing their war paint, cowboys clothed in holiday regalia, cattle men, farmers and business men will rub elbows at the ceremonies. More than 200,000 people are expected to witness it.

Immediately afterward the largest meal on record in Oklahoma will be served the multitude.

Dances and public receptions by officials and dignitaries of the incoming administration will occupy the remainder of the program. The dances on Tuesday and Wednesday at night.

FORMER SERVICE MEN MEMBERS LEGISLATURE ORGANIZING A "BLOC"

AUSTIN, Jan. 8.—Fifteen former service men members of the state legislature, which convenes tomorrow, met today and took initial steps toward the formation of a former service men "bloc" in the legislature. The principal work of the bloc will be to sponsor a program for the legislation in behalf of the ex-service men, particularly the veterans' bureau.

The representative of Dallas county, temporary chairman of the group, said members in the house and senate would introduce bills providing for the extension of the veterans' bureau, the creation of a veterans' land board, and other measures.

LEWIS CARPENTER EXPECTED TO QUIT RACE FOR SPEAKER

(By Staff Correspondent.)

AUSTIN, Jan. 8.—The candidacy of Lewis T. Carpenter of Dallas for the speakership race was confidently expected before the end of the day leaving Seagler of Palestine virtually a clear field for the place. Carpenter's prospective entry in the gubernatorial nomination is a next to considered likely to block out of the race rather than a further such a blow to his political aspirations as defeat on the floor of the house would give. Such withdrawals are usually made upon a trading basis and Carpenter is expected to hold off until he sees what concessions, if any, are to be made him. INTEREST CENTERS IN CAMPAIGN FOR SPEAKER

AUSTIN, Jan. 8.—Interest in the convening of the state legislature tomorrow continued today to center in the campaign for speakership of the house of representatives with three candidates in the field. Practically all of the legislators had arrived in Austin this morning and preparations were complete for the opening of the session.

Reports were current last night and today that Lewis T. Carpenter, representative from Dallas and announced candidate for the speakership would withdraw. But Carpenter announced at noon that he would [illegible]

PARIS, Jan. 8.—In a last effort to save the Ruhr valley from French seizure an attempt was made last Friday to arrange an interview in Paris between Premier Poincare and Hugo Stinnes at which the head of the French government and the chief of the German capitalists might make peace. Premier Poincare rejected the offer.

By Associated Press.

PARIS, Jan. 8.—The occupation of Essen by a small French force, accompanying engineers and customs officers, is now slated for Thursday morning, it was stated on good authority today.

Belgian and Italian engineers and technical experts will accompany the French but only the Belgians, it is understood, will contribute to the force of occupation.

PARIS, Jan. 8.—Premier Poincare will inform parliament on Thursday regarding his policy toward the Ruhr district. This was decided upon at today's council of ministers.

France is going just far enough in the Ruhr to show Germany she is in earnest, it was said in French circles today.

There is every desire on the part of France it is stated to avoid any unnecessary show of force—any intimation that the French government is disposed to rely on force alone. [illegible] reach a satisfactory agreement with Germany.

Premier Poincare does not intend to mobilize a single soldier in addition to the regular forces under arms nor call out a single additional reservist, it is decreed.

The silence of the government regarding its plan to seize guarantees contains no hint of a great show of military force. It is affirmed but is only a natural precaution on the part of the authorities to prevent the seizure of so rich a prize from taking place.

FRANCE HAS REPLIED TO THE AMERICAN PROPOSAL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The plan for settlement of the reparations controversy between France and England outlined by Secretary Hughes in his New Haven address has been communicated to the French government through official channels.

No official reply has been made to France, though it has been learned today that a prompt answer had been received here from the French foreign office. It was said at the state department that the proposal was regarded as a basis for discussion.

It was not stated what the American proposal was, but it was understood that it dealt with the question of the cancellation of the allied war debts, a subject which Mr. Hughes delicately avoided in his New Haven address.

COUNCIL AT QUANAH CONTRACTS FOR NEW WATERWORKS PLANT

QUANAH, TEXAS, Jan 8—Bonds were sold contracts let and plans completed by the city council last night for the construction of a water works system for Quanah.

The bonds which were voted printed and ready for sale some time ago were for the amount of $90,000, of which $2,000 have been taken up already thus leaving the amount for the ones sold Saturday at $88,000.

Craig Garrett and company of Dallas were the highest bidders and bought the bonds for a premium of $876 plus six per cent interest and accrued value. This same firm represented by Lowell E. Craig was the highest bidders in another bond issue recently sold by the city. Nine bids were offered for the bonds, each firm being represented in person at the meeting. Construction companies supply houses and others interested in the letting of contracts for this work were so well represented at the meeting. Figuring out the lowest prices in the meeting into the early hours of the morning.

The James Contracting company of Dallas had the lowest bid on the plant and constructing work. The final price given by them was $68,[illegible]. The Ajax Construction company of Oklahoma City also turned in a low bid but did not include the finishing of the plant. Quite an advance was noted in the sale of the bonds from previous quotations. Five local firms who are authority on bonds were selected by the council to certify or pass on the bonds although they have already been approved by the attorney general and [illegible] was adopted.

Indiana Lady Says She Was Run-Down, Suffered With Her Back, Took Cardui, and Got Well

"Richmond, Ind.—I thought I could write a line or so to say that I owe my good health and strength to Cardui," says a letter from Mrs. Cora Courtney of 705 North Seventh street, this city.

"I was all run down until my family thought they would lose me," writes Mrs. Courtney. "My husband coaxed me to take Cardui. I to please him, I did and I am able to do all my work and do my sewing.

"I have five children, four in school, my husband and a boarder to care for, and I do all my own work for all of us, and find time to play with all. I praise Cardui. Every sick and run-down woman should take this wonderful medicine.

"I suffered with my back, a very weak feeling in my loins. I felt hardly able to drag just tired—so tired all the time.

"It was an effort for me to do anything, but Cardui helped me so I felt like a different woman."

EPHESUS, THE CITY OF SUPERSTITION IS SERMON SUBJECT

Dr. Grafton preached the second of a series of eight sermons on the cities of Paul to the evening service of the First Christian church Sunday evening. Ephesus, the City of Superstition, was the subject, being his text from the 19th chapter of Acts the 14th verse.

Dr. Grafton said Ephesus was enthroned by nature. The Temple of Diana, or Goddess and Sorceress Ephesus, shone in marble of a magnificence which had that man and he said the Goddess of Ephesus, the Diana, whose temple was ever after called Lady Diana.

There were two of these big and horrible things, these two hills was a great thoroughfare which led out about a mile to the Temple of Diana.

Ephesus was beautiful in its setting. The little valley that spread out at the base of these two hills was beautiful in the extreme and it was called the Eye of Asia. It had splendid bridges and the Temple of Diana was said to be one of the seven wonders of the world.

Many interesting things occurred in this beautiful city and things worthy of note. One of the interesting things is the cemetery or the tombs of the city of Ephesus. It was here that John the Beloved was buried and spent the latter part of his life and had reached the age of 100 years. It was here that Mary the Mother of Jesus was buried. One of the companions of Paul, Luke, wrote a gospel of Christ and his home in Ephesus and it is there. Timothy the son of Paul spent the latter years of his life there and his tomb is to be found at Ephesus. It was in Ephesus that the Roman Catholic church established the worship of the Madonna, the worship of Mary the Mother of Jesus and we are now to know the history of the situation and to believe that it was a very welcome thing. When it had served its purpose perhaps it ought to have been released but it was not and continues today. It was through the influence of Mary that the name of the Lord Jesus Christ came to be revered. Ephesus was the home of the greatest painter the world ever knew and out of his school he sent out other great painters. It was the city of the school of Tirannus. It was here that Paul taught for two years. It was here that the announcement of the theory of evolution was made and upon which Charles Darwin based his latter day theory of evolution. It was here that John the beloved formulated his doctrine of the word and wrote the Gospel of John. In the beginning was the word and the word was with God and the word was God, the word word of all doctrines in the word of God the incarnate Christ who took upon himself the form of man and God encased him in the flesh and it was at Ephesus that John gave to the world his great thought of the incarnate word of the God Jesus Christ. It was here that Paul wrote his great letter to the church at Corinth. It was here that Paul fought wild beasts. It was here that John the beloved established a theological university.

Ephesus was found upon superstition, obtained a large part of its wealth by superstition and was continually impregnated with superstition and secret societies of all the sciences of all the ages. The language he used with the people, face to face with the people was one of warning against superstition.

Ephesus was noted for its magical arts. Both pagan and Christian superstition thrived in the very atmosphere. The Temple of Diana was the popular superstition. It was made of the marble with columns 60 feet long and a column being given by each king who sought worshiped in goddess and the temple. The goddess represented heaven, king who had given one of these columns. In the temple was an image of Diana of pure gold weighing 22 pounds. Next to this image was a meteor that fell from the heavens. Salutations and wealth poured to the city to the golden images. One represented Diana holding two stags. The other represented the city of Ephesus as a woman wearing a crown. The chamber of commerce of the city of Ephesus designated the 30th day of each year as the birthday of Diana in which great parades and merry making took place and it was during such a time that Paul began to preach Jesus Christ to the people. For three months he preached in the synagogues and upon the streets and his goal was to get hold of the people and God gave them special power.

Not until God cleansed the city from the superstition had Ephesus been free of the stigma upon its name and the church.

ALLEGE ORGANIZED LIQUOR TRAFFIC IN EMBASSY CIRCLES

WASHINGTON, Jan 8—An effort to trace possible links through which liquor is alleged to have found its way into embassies and legations reached the police of the District of Columbia today.

Rumors of an organized traffic in liquor brought in by some of the embassies and legations reached the police some time ago. It was said but indications that these were more than rumors now are declared to have been found during successive raids in the three apartment houses in the fashionable northwest section.

Lieutenant O. T. Davis, chief of the vice squad, under direction of which the raids were conducted, declared information had reached police that attaches of some of these establishments have been parties to this traffic. During the latest raid by officers a large quantity of imported liquors was seized and a man who said he was Joaquin Mendez, former minister of Guatemala, was taken into custody. Lieutenant Davis said the man arrested claimed ownership of the liquor as I protested against its seizure on the ground that it was the property of a diplomat. Mrs. Elizabeth Hecht also taken into custody in the raid was said to have admitted that the liquors found in her apartment were from foreign sources.

Inquiry at both the state department and the Guatemalan legation. Lieutenant Davis said, brought the information that Joaquin Mendez had no present connection with that establishment.

I repeat I am prejudiced in favor of advertising. But I am not guessing. I have seen what it has been able to do. Advertising is almost as necessary to the bank, particularly the one offering a diversified service, as it is to the department store.

It is a powerful force, and no one deserving the right to apply it to his business should be denied that right.

Shelby Woman Declares She Suffered Continually from Indigestion But Tanlac Overcame It Completely

The remarkable tonic properties of Tanlac are further evidenced in the story of Mrs. P. L. Conner, 510 Elm street, Shelby, Ohio, who at a recent weighing of age has gained 20 pounds. Mrs. Conner's own statement follows:

"Before I took Tanlac I was run-down I was almost a wreck. My nerves nearly so [illegible] and I got so weak I just gave up trying to do anything. The gas on my stomach went at a terrible rate and at times my breath would almost stop. I suffered continually with indigestion and the little sleep I got seemed to do me no good.

"I have taken seven bottles of Tanlac now and have gained 20 pounds. All my old friends say I look the best I have in many years and I certainly do feel that way too. Tanlac is such a grand good medicine that everybody ought to know about it."

The program was based on an [illegible] Mrs. Mandelson [illegible] in addition to these [illegible] to develop Hesen's treatment of the social life. In the course of her talk she pointed out the fact that practically every one of the problem plays has for its theme the exposition of some [illegible] Hesen's attention to Ibsen's attitude toward public opinion his belief that the majority is usually wrong and that the minority is in most cases right.

Miss Elizabeth [illegible] gave a delightful original [illegible] of the Wild Duck [illegible] in which [illegible] way she [illegible] the [illegible] may be thrust [illegible] at [illegible] problems when he says, in effect, that to world might be a happy place to live in if so [illegible] straight [illegible] [illegible] round table [illegible] social program [illegible] This was the [illegible] that one of the discussions [illegible] evening. Farm Is Today's Greatest Training School For Musical Comedy Chorus

BY MARIAN HALE

"Do you come from the farm?" [illegible] James Montgomery [illegible] question to a [illegible] girls these days.

About 99 per cent says Montgomery of the musical comedies which used to extol existence on tropical skies or in gay Paree now sing the delights of our own simple rural life.

And no girl can truly interpret a role of a country maid unless she knows something at first hand [illegible]

Sought the Country

So Montgomery, [illegible] and the [illegible] from the small towns of Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and Indiana.

[illegible] about The Saw Mill River Road and "The Curfew Shall Not Ring Tonight" [illegible] West of Broadway.

Have to Be Different

"No people liked to see them on the stage—they were different.

Today school girls and stenographers and society debs wear as much makeup as chorus girls can and have still got to have something different on the stage.

So we return to natural beauty. We go straight back to the old farm to get it.

I would say off hand that there are now in New York about 4 fresh-from-the-country chorus girls who have been especially imported to furnish atmosphere.

Quick Quaker Oats. The Quickest-Cooking Oats in the World

Now you get two things in Quakrr Oats which no other oats can offer. You get a flavor which has won the world. All Quaker Oats are flaked from queen grains only—just the rich, plump, flavory oats.

And now there is Quick Quake: — the quickest-cooking oats in the world. It cooks in 3 to 5 minutes.

Made from the same queen grains but the oats are cut before flaking. They are rolled very thin and partly cooked. So the flakes are smaller and thinner—that is all. And those small thin flakes cook quickly.

In either style you get the finest flavor an oat dish ever had. In Quick you get quick cooking. Tell your grocer which style you prefer.

SHIP SUBSIDY BILL MAY NOT COME TO VOTE THIS SESSION

PLENTY OF CHANCES TO SIDE TRACT IT WITHOUT A FILIBUSTER

BILL DOES NOT COMMAND INTEREST OF THE PUBLIC

Even Friends of Harding Are Only Lukewarm In Support of Measure

By MARK SULLIVAN
National Political Correspondent of the New York Evening Post and Wichita Daily Times
(Copyright 1923 by the New York Evening Post)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 8—It would take a sanguine friend of the administration to hope that it will be passed during the present session. In December there were optimistic prophecies that the bill would go through the senate by the middle of January. That will not be done. Even after the senate has voted there will remain much time and a need for conference between the house and senate to reconcile serious differences of the bill.

The present writer has always doubted whether the ship subsidy bill would come to a vote in the present session. Without any formal or definite filibuster there were and are plenty of signs of a determination to talk with something else.

Suppose a formal amendment to the naval appropriation bill calling for an equitable price on the purchase of nitrate for use in the manufacture of explosives, and that the senate and conference committee spent all the time the senate gave to the interest the country took in it. The proposal may come up again if it does not others will.

Vote Not Expected

In spite of the fact that regular appropriation bills this session are being handled with greater speed and compactness than in any other session within recent memory, it still remains the better guess that the subsidy bill will hardly come to a vote during the mere 49 days which now remain before March 4. If the bill is a final form should come to a vote it will probably pass with a large margin of one or two votes in the senate and a reasonable majority in the house. The democratic senators with two exceptions will vote against it.

While the democrats are against the bill they are not disposed to adopt filibustering tactics. Such charges of filibustering as are made are directed against the republican majority. The republicans represent the progressive opinion of the country. It is the unhappy fate of this bill that while the opposition to it is aggressive, those who favor it in the senate are not nearly as warm.

Republicans Doubtful

President Harding is put behind it, and he believes it to be the interest of America for general and vitally important other reasons. But many of the republicans in the senate, while they are entirely willing to follow Harding and similarly do what they consider to be the progress of the bill, never the less do not have the feeling about it that they might have about a measure of the kind which they thought should be the fundamental value of the bill. They have doubts about the particular form in which the administration is asking them to vote, based on the political loyalty of this bill at the front of the program.

The bill does not command the interest of the senate or of the country in the way that would normally be expected of a measure of major legislation. Nevertheless President Harding is clearly committed to it, and he will be able to keep the issue before the senate until he gets a vote on it one way or another. From his point of view, the time he has given to the bill has been well spent. Democratic senators who have been in the senate for years have never seen a measure which has received more time than this one has received in the senate without being voted on. However, with the exception of the Underwood tariff bill, which was in the senate for a long time, the senate has never had a measure which has been so long before it without being voted on. The senate has never had a measure which has been so long before it without being voted on. The senate has never had a measure which has been so long before it without being voted on.

FIRES FANNED BY GALE BRING TERROR TO DENVER

Every Fire Department in City Engaged in Battling Flames in the City

DENVER, COLO., Jan. 8—Leaping upon the east slope of the Rocky mountains in Texas early last night, a severe windstorm raged in velocity from a rate of 30 miles to between 60 and 70 miles an hour, left destruction in its wake in parts of Denver, nearly a score of other small towns and farms, according to reports received early today.

Fires fanned by the gale were the terror in parts of Denver, the fire department reports the fires in Denver started in the business district, flames spreading to two court houses, which were soon reported to be ablaze. Several hundred persons were reported to have been made homeless in Denver.

However, with the exception of the Underwood tariff bill, which was in the senate for a long time, the senate has never had a measure which has been so long before it without being voted on. The senate has never had a measure which has been so long before it without being voted on. The senate has never had a measure which has been so long before it without being voted on.

BRING HOME THE AMERICAN SOLDIERS

By an overwhelming majority the United States senate has voted a request to President Harding to bring home the American troops stationed at Coblenz.

This ought now to be done without further delay.

Following the armistice a considerable number of American troops were stationed in the Coblenz area to insure the carrying out the terms of the armistice until a treaty was negotiated and ratified. The United States failed to ratify this treaty, but adopted a resolution declaring that a state of war with Germany no longer existed.

When that resolution was adopted, it appears, would have been a good time to have ordered every American soldier on German soil home. Indeed a greater part of the American troops stationed in Germany have been brought home. Only about eleven hundred remain. According to reports there are now at least five French soldiers in the Coblenz area to every American soldier.

Aside from the fact of the anomoly of the situation of troops being quartered in a country with whom the United States is at peace, there is some actual danger in the situation. A clash between the population of this area and the French troops stationed there is possible at any time, the more so since the French are about to put into operation coercive measures and such a clash might involve American troops. Such an event might involve us either with Germany or France, an eventuality that is certainly not to be desired.

Had America ratified the Versailles treaty and joined the league of nations the stationing of a small number of American troops in Germany might have been warranted. The United States, however, rejected the treaty and declined to join the league of nations or to have anything to do with European troubles. It is difficult in view of these actions to justify the continued quartering of a single American soldier on German soil.

WHAT YOU LIKE

A girl who clerks in a 5-and-10-cent store sends this letter: "Why is it that some invisible force seems to keep me chained to my present job, when what I really want to do is act in the movies? I am getting well into the thirties. The bloom is leaving my cheeks. I try to be practical and sensible. But, by keeping my ears open and my mind busy figuring things out, I learn that I am in much the same boat as every one else. No one seems able to do what they want to do. Why is this?"

To this girl clerk, we answer:

The question you ask has been asked by every grown-up since humanity began to exercise its power of reasoning. And there seems to be no answer, except that fate or destiny has much to do with our careers.

George Ade, who is such a genius as a genial satirist that future generations will study his fables in slang as our generation studies "Rabelais," always wanted to write "heavy stuff." Maybe you remember the American Magazine's interview with George, in which he expressed his bewilderment because he seemed forced to write humor instead of philosophy or tragedy.

Another case is Eddie Foy, comedian, whose foremost ambition always was to play Hamlet.

The reader will apply it to himself—to the thing he wants to be, the life he wants to live, but cannot. It is as if invisible hands of destiny thrust you away from culmination of ardent desire.

The trail, as always in philosophy, leads nowhere. Common sense brings most of us a certain degree of contentment by making us realize that we probably are doing what we were intended to do.

You see an able lawyer, proud of his ability to repair a clock. He says: "I was cut out to be a fine mechanic." Deep in his heart he knows that he is "kidding" himself—that law is his natural field.

This law, however, holds good only when we are definitely established in the rut through which we are destined to spend most of our mature years.

Often we are doing the wrong kind of work and yearn for something else. If fitted for the something else, ambition will make us find a way to get into the line we like.

When it comes to day-dreaming, to things we yearn for but are unwilling or unable to attain with our powers, we generally are like vaudeville actors as booking agents describe them: "When they can sing, they want to dance. And when they can dance they want to sing."

While discussing auto-suggestion a Wilson player might say this Coue has a fairly good life.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE TASK OF HAPPINESS

"Two men looked out from prison bars;
One saw mud, the other stars."

Just so far as is possible we should all become artists in happiness. It is a task quite as exacting and as difficult as the art of painting or of music—with the same requisite, that we must be born with a talent for it.

Happiness blooms in fertile soil. It may be soil in which the flowers of sadness and the thistles of disappointment and despair have often grown tall. But where this thing of happiness is made to grow, its pungent odors and exquisite beauties cast their spell over all.

So that happiness does indeed become a task—but one which floods the soul with health and spurs every faculty of the mind and body to the best achievement.

Beyond, and far above the mud of failure, are always to be found the stars of happiness!

What a wealth of beauty is hourly passed by in this workaday world. There are those who daily wade through the richness of happiness, not knowing, and complaining that life is not worth the living.

All you have to do is to reach out a little, work a little, see a little, serve a little, sing a little, bear a little, feel a little, love a little—and behold a tiny plant of happiness is born to the light of heaven right where you are.

Then your task begins. Will you be very happy, or remain merely passingly content?

Caged in that restless frame of yours, just remember that when you look for the stars, you must look up! Happiness is looking up.

SHE GAVE ME A LETTER TO MAIL

She gave me a letter to mail;
I said it should go right away,
Should catch the first post without fail,
I vowed there would be no delay,
And into my pocket it went,
The letter that never was sent.

I thought of the book she desired,
The shopping she asked me to do,
I sent up a maid whom she hired,
I remembered the coal order, too.
I remembered to stop for the meat
She wanted that evening to eat.

I don't like to brag or to boast,
As a husband I do as I'm told;
I am sure I remember the most
Of the things that a mind ought to hold,
And the gas bill she hands me today
I even remember to pay.

Weeks after I run through my coat,
Through the papers and things I acquire,
And discover a sweetscented note,
Which I promptly consign to the fire!
There ever and always I fail—
When she gives me a letter to mail.

A man can be a self-starter and not get where he is going unless he is a self-stopper.

The most dangerous word in this language of ours is "yes."

Stars Favor U. S. In 1923

This is Prediction of Woman Seer for New Year

EVANGELINE S. ADAMS

What do the stars favor for 1923? NEA Service asked Evangeline S. Adams world famous astrologer. Here is her story of the influences which will preside over the nations of the world for the coming year:

By EVANGELINE S. ADAMS

The year 1923 will be one of material success.

Throughout the year Jupiter will be in the sign Scorpio, which augurs well for any enterprise having to do with liquids, chemicals or drugs. Oil wells will show profit, shipping will be stimulated, those engaged in the import and export business will meet with success.

Hope for Wets

Conditions will favor those interested in the so-called "wet" movement and will stimulate agents and "rum" leaders will have to be increasingly vigilant.

Political chaos will continue abroad until this country decides to cooperate. Restriction and depression will prevail in China and India. Russia, however, will issue out to brighter conditions.

There will be settlement of the friction between capital and labor. Capital will show increasing dissatisfaction with labor leaders and labor unions. There will be howevver, determined strides toward achieving the brotherhood of man.

U. S. Success.

The United States will be more fortunate, more successful than any other country, as President Harding is under star influences than any other ruler.

HENRY WANTS THIS. This is an airplane photograph of the Mississippi River high dam between St. Paul and Minneapolis, the power rights of which Henry Ford has requested in a petition to the Federal Power Commission. If granted permission to harness this water power, Ford says he will build a $50,000,000 automobile, tractor and farm implement plant on the river bank. The plant, it is estimated, would give employment to 15,000 with a daily payroll of $50,000. Action on Ford's petition is expected soon. The St. Paul city council has gone on record as favoring the project.

LEONARD WOULD MAKE DETROIT REAL CONTENDER

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8.—What about Dutch Leonard, former star southpaw of the Detroit Tigers? Isn't it about time some club start dickering for his services. Leonard refused to report to Detroit last season because of a salary difference.

Leonard, who has become very wealthy in the last five years because of a big advance in his real estate holdings on the coast, held out for a figure that was much too high in suit Owner Navin of Detroit.

Now that Detroit looks to have such a good chance to win in 1923 it is possible that some effort will be made to get him back. With a pitcher of Leonard's ability, working at top form, the Tigers would get a big boost for their pennant chances.

Leonard did a little pitching in California last summer. It is understood he did not play against any ineligibles, so he probably would be immediately reinstated if he applied to Commissioner Landis.

Seems a shame to have a southpaw of Leonard's ability going to waste, when left-handed pitchers are such a scarce article in the majors.

WILL DEMOTION TO RANKS AFFECT MILAN'S PLAYING?

By NEA Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8—Local fans are wondering as to the status of Clyde Milan, who managed the Nationals last season.

Will Milan be with the Nationals next season? If he does remain with the club will he be as useful as he was before he tried the managerial job?

Seldom have veteran players, who have tried managing, prospered on the same club after being reduced to the ranks. No doubt the failure of Milan to be reappointed was somewhat of a disappointment.

Many will argue that no manager could have done any more than he did with the Washington team of last year. Possibly Milan feels the same way about it. If he does, he will hardly relish being demoted to the ranks without getting a more thorough trial.

While Milan is nearing the end of his playing days, he would fit in very well in the outfield of several American League clubs. Possibly he may figure in a trade before the opening of the season.

WICHITA VALLEY SAFE AT SEYMOUR ROBBED OF $6.00

SEYMOUR, Jan. 8.—Yeggmen forced an entrance into the office of the passenger depot here this morning at 4 o'clock and blew the safe of the Wichita Valley Railway company. They secured $6 from the cash box of the safe and overlooked $40 in currency which had been secreted among papers in the safe.

Yeggs blew this same safe about three weeks ago, securing about $35. The damage to the safe at that time was light and it had been repaired.

The safe was totally wrecked on the last visit, being beyond repair. Several people living adjacent to the depot heard the noise of the explosion, but not thinking that a safe had been blown, no notice was given to officers and the yeggmen escaped without leaving any clue as to their identity.

BASKET BALL QUIZ by Referee

JUMPING FOR BALL.

When the players are jumping for the ball from the center, may one of the players after the whistle has been blown, jump out of the circle and try to outjump his opponent by being in a position to receive the ball?

A player jumping from center has a perfect right to go as high as he can or far from the circle until after the ball has been tapped.

POSITION.

What must be the position of other players when two players jump from center or elsewhere on a ball tossed to the referee?

There is no definite position for the other players on a tossed ball. They have a perfect right to assume any position that does not in any way interfere with the jumpers.

FACING BASKET.

When players jump from center or elsewhere, is it necessary that they face their own baskets when jumping?

No particular facing is required, but as a rule the players have their backs on their own basket, so as to be in the best possible position to tip the ball to their advantage.

College Mat Game Needs Rules

By PAUL PRIEHN

Coach of University of Illinois Wrestling Team and Contender for Middleweight Wrestling Championship of World.

The crying need of college wrestling today is a codification of the rules.

At present we have the rules of the National A. A. U., the Central A. A. U., the Western Intercollegiate, and the Pacific A. A. U. These codes differ in such respects as the length of time of bouts, holds allowed, and the system of scoring points.

This makes for difficulty when officials who have worked under one system are called upon to officiate in another section of the country.

At the same time it is a disadvantage for any man in which he has trained in one section would be obliged to meet wrestlers from the other. Representatives from the various associations should meet and agree upon a uniform code such as is done in football.

Financial Outlook.

To date college wrestling has not been financially profitable to the athletic associations. But it is the time of ice hockey and other indoor sports.

The rapid growth of college wrestling is shown by the increase in the number of students who are taking it up. Three years ago the University of Illinois had a very small class of men who were interested enough to turn out for the freshman and wrestling classes. One corner was in a corner of the gymnasium.

Last year the number increased and it was necessary to add assistant coaches to handle the overflow classes. We were lucky to have these coaches available in the four-year course in athletic coaching—students who had taken wrestling and were able to instruct. Last fall more than 100 men enrolled. Although this enrollment is larger than is usual, the case in most universities, there has been a rapid increase in interest in wrestling and many universities, colleges, and preparatory schools are adding wrestling to their athletic programs.

Not For Professionals.

Wrestling as taught in the various universities is not for the purpose of developing professionals.

It is to show the average athletically inclined young man the value to be gained from the proper co-ordination of mind and muscle.

There is no sport superior to wrestling for demonstrating this.

QUANAH QUINTETS WIN DOUBLE BILL SATURDAY

QUANAH, TEXAS, Jan. 8.—Quanah defeated Odem here Saturday in a double header basket ball. The girls' team won from the visitors by a score of 22 to 13, while the boys came out with the big end of a 35 to 10 score. This is the second game for the local teams, both of which have been victorious for them.

A heavy schedule awaits them next week.

Memphis News

MEMPHIS, Jan. 8.—District court has convened here for the mid-winter term. Judge James V. Leak of Memphis, was sworn in by District Clerk Alexander. Judge Leak is the first Hall county man to serve this district in this capacity.

The bond of District Attorney A. C. Nicholson, of Vernon, was approved and he assumed the duties of that office.

The following grand jury was impanelled with J. T. Dennis of Lodge as foreman: J. P. Montgomery, Henry McLanne, J. M. Farrell, H. E. Mullins, L. M. Coker, T. D. Gee, W. H. Bowerman, Seth Palmer, D. A. Neely, Grover Moss, Joe Weatherby.

In accepting and instructing the grand jury Judge Leak did not inquire as to whether or not any of the panel were members of the Ku Klux Klan as did his predecessor, Judge Nabers, last court and the court a year ago. The court's instructions to the grand jury were quite brief.

Police Chief Resigns.

At the last meeting of the city council the resignation of Chief of Police John Harris was accepted, to take effect February 1, and J. Y. Snow, formerly chief, was named to succeed him.

Contract for Bridge.

At a special meeting the retiring commissioners' court contracted with a Dallas firm to build a bridge across Mulberry creek, in the extreme northwestern corner of the county. The price agreed upon was $10.85 per lineal foot. The estimated length of the bridge to be 1500 to 1500 feet. This will be the most expensive bridge in Hall county, though the county has two bridges across Big Town Fork (Red river) which are much longer. The bridge is to be of pine piling.

Corner Stone Opened.

The corner stone of the old court house, which is being razed to make room for a new building, was opened last Wednesday. Among other objects found inclosed in the stone were some coins and a legible copy of the Hall County Herald, Eugene DeBaurintiend, dated Sept. 4, 1889. Among the advertisements in this paper was one setting forth the excellencies of the goods handled by the Heath and Wilkers saloon. Some coins and other articles were also sealed in the stone which was laid thirty years ago.

New Officers Qualify.

The following new Hall county officers were sworn in and began their duties Monday morning: A. E. Hoffman, county judge; Miss Edna Bryan, county clerk; Joe Merrick, sheriff; W. A. McIntosh, county attorney; Miss Elsie Bass, school superintendent; W. H. Grundy, commissioner precinct 1; C. J. Nash, commissioner precinct 2; Ned Barton, commissioner precinct 3 and T. F. Coker, commissioner precinct 4. The following county officers were reelected and hold their places: Marvin Disheroon, tax collector; Louis Wheat, tax assessor; J. M. Wilborn, treasurer, and S. G. Alexander, district clerk.

Grand Jury Adjourns.

The grand jury adjourned Friday evening after being in session since Monday. Their report, given to Judge Leak, was not made public. It is known, however, that many witnesses have been examined and that special efforts were being made to secure evidence of violations of the liquor laws, the violations of which are said to have been flagrant.

BULLSEYES of BASEBALL

MOST UNUSUAL DEBUT I EVER SAW

The debut of any rookie pitcher in the majors is the big event of his baseball career.

I have seen a number of rookies come and go. Often the debut of certain rookie pitchers marks their finish. Some meet with immediate success, others have the opposite luck, and for a great many it is a calamity.

The most unusual debut I ever saw a rookie pitcher make in the majors, was put on by Ray Keating, who for a number of years was a valuable member of the New York Yankees' pitching staff.

Keating was a spit-ball pitcher and he had a varied assortment of most deceivers. The umpire was called balls and strikes with Keating doing the pitching always had a busy day.

The first time I ever saw Keating was in a game at St. Louis. The Browns were leading by a top-heavy score. A Yankee pinch hitter was sent in to bat in the eighth inning for the pitcher, and Keating was selected to work the last half of the inning.

Groat had been going the rounds, but Keating had a choice lot of delivery, but lacked control. Before the inning was over I was positive that gossip was correct for once.

Keating walked the first man to face him, the count being three balls and two strikes when the final pitch went wild. The next batter struck out, once again the count being three and two, when the batter was offered at the next pitch and missed.

To make a long story short, Keating walked the first, third and fifth batters to face him. He struck out the second, fourth and sixth hitter to step into the batter's box. In each case the final count was three balls and two strikes.

The third umpire couldn't have called for a more unusual one.

Tomorrow: The greatest world series pitching I ever saw.

Billy Evans Says

The football coaches of the country seem pretty well satisfied with the gridiron game, and well they should be.

Last year football enjoyed its greatest season. Capacity crowds viewed every big game scheduled, the public, by its attendance, showed its approval of the game as played.

At the recent meeting of the leading football coaches in New York, the question of changes in the playing rules. Several changes were suggested, but all of them were quickly voted down. The game in its present form is good enough.

The changes in football as suggested are far from satisfactory. Bob Folwell, who coached at Colgate this year, suggested that in case of a tie game, the team making the most first downs should be regarded as the victor. The advantage in doubt should be the deciding factor in all games. Nothing doing, said the coaches.

Coach Hetzman of Pennsylvania offered a most ingenious suggestion as a means of eliminating tie games in football. It was his plan to allow both teams to have the ball on the offensive for three downs from mid-field after the finish of the game. Texas was not allowed to play football. The game should be decided by a tie game, consequently it was

While the coaches listened with much attention to the unusual suggestion of the Pennsylvania mentor, it failed to receive the slightest encouragement from any of them.

Coach Neale of Washington and Jefferson offered a suggestion that was turned down with a bang. It is easy to imagine what Coach Bill Roper of Princeton thought of Neale's suggestion.

Neal was for eliminating the element of luck in the first downs made on forward passes intercepted and simple and plain he proposed that the ball on a forward pass be given to the receiving team at first down at the point received.

The coaches hopped all over Neale's suggestion, and it died out the moment the W. & J. coach was seated. The coaches are wise in figuring the game as played is good enough.

DR. BARNES TALKS SUNDAY MORNING ON "THE IDEAL WOMAN"

Dr. S. A. Barnes spoke on "The Ideal Woman" Sunday morning at the Broad Heights Methodist church, taking his text from Proverbs last chapter, 10 to 31st verses, inclusive, he said:

"And will note that not that one person in the one verses from the last chapter of Proverbs. It is a big subject because I have a big subject. I have not time to treat it as I would like to treat it, because I have an inexhaustible subject, but in a few minutes I am going to compare the qualifications of an ideal woman. He had seven hundred to judge from. I do not mean such an ideal woman what you call a modern or twentieth century woman, whatever that means, but a woman as planned and as God intended her should be. When God created man and viewed the work he had wrought and pronounced it good, the crowning work of his creation, he had not up to that time created woman. Man was alone and God said, 'you need a companion, it is not well that you live alone.' He needed a ballast, an anchor that would hold against the storms and stress of life, so he created woman and endowed her with truth, industry, thrift, strength, charity and pure religion. These are the glorious virtues and outstanding qualifications which I have ever differentiated her in my mind of God's creation.

"Her sphere is domestic, intellectual, political, social and religious, and in these I shall be able only to touch briefly in this hour. First, her sphere is domestic; this has reference to her relation in the home, her relation to her husband, her children and her home duties. God gave her hands that she might minister to her home that artistic touch. He gave her eyes of beauty and tenderness. You cannot make a home without the touch and presence of a woman. Solomon said, she looketh well to the ways of her household and eateth not the bread of idleness, her children rise up to call her blessed, and her husband also praiseth her. But this is not all that is meant by her domestic relations; there is nothing more foolish than the idea that a woman should not have an occupation or profession. Man's work is from sun to sun but a woman's work is never done. Not only lay in the affairs of home but of her knowledge of industry stops there, how is she to train the mind of the impressionable childhood that in time must rule both church and state? Hear the words of the wise man, she seeketh wool and flax and worketh willingly with her hands, she is strength and strengtheneth her arms, she stretcheth her hands to the distaff and her hands hold the spindle and her hands hold the spindle.

"Again, she is intellectual. Ignorance and fear of political parts and attainments, but she intuitively has broken these paper shackles and set her forth as a star of life. In pagan land she is a slave, in Christian lands she stands interior to man but equal to him. However strength of intellect does not only consist in art and literature but in physical attainments as well. The physical education of woman is just now receiving special attention. A race of invalid mothers will not produce a nation of strong men and women both physically and intellectually. However, the strength of woman does not lie wholly in her physical and intellectual attainments, but in her strength of character. Physical infirmities may hinder her domestic relations, may interfere with her intellectual performances, but the force of her character will stand forth and shine as the day star.

"Again, her sphere is political. It was not an easy matter for some of us to come to the recognition of her right of her political rights and privileges. We had many fears and much trembling as to the final outcome, but it was foreordained and predestined to be so, and her entry into America politics has had more to do with the moral reform of the last five years than all the other influences combined, and her work in her behalf since has actively begun.

"My observation has led me to believe that the women, as a general thing, are better judges of candidates and give more attention to measures and cast more intelligent votes than the average man of this country. American politics has been so corrupt and degenerate, political parties have become so unscrupulous and unprincipled that it will require years to eradicate the taint on the political dial plate, even with the cooperation and assistance of our christian women. But the reform is sure to come. Transformation is taking place, the old saloon man and his e-barts in Dunnigan is surely doomed, God's right will ultimately come into their own and God hasten that day.

"In the next place her sphere is social, she is better for a social standard better than anyone else and the social standard is in her hands. I regret to say that here she has come more nearly breaking down than at any other point in all of her God-given sphere—and may I go still further and say: 'If she fails here, she has lost the crowning glory in every other sphere of life.' If you allow me, let me humbly and earnestly appeal to you to see to it in this important field in which God has placed you, use your best efforts, God-given talent, your political strength and your religious zeal to remold and recast the moral sentiment and social standing of this day. Here we will rise or fall. It is in your hands as the moulder of moral reforms and social purity. You will never reform this country nor check the reckless extravagance in immodesty and place a ban on immorality and social vice until the womanhood of the country becomes alarmed and rise up in their might and say it must stop.

"I believe the good women of this city and this country can bring to pass anything which they desire. The trouble is, the serpent may not have reached your horizon as yet but it is moving in that direction; but you will get no where and accomplish no things by crying and complaining, calling and encouraging some of the new institutions which is the handicap of purity and social vice. It is high time the mothers are awakening to the approaching danger that threaten the very life of the nation. It would not be amiss for some of you to take some time from your social engagements and take an inventory. I have read recently and know personally some happenings of some high school students that would make a man of more years blush. I have said, what are we coming? I do not charge this to our public school teachers. They are not to blame, but the high ideal home, church, hospital, restaurant and public resort has been reduced to low standards. Low standards in social circles. This is a strong arraignment against the girls. Listen to me, we will have no higher standard by legislation or proclamation. We may check the growing tide but the womanhood of the country can do it any day they will, do do that it must stop. May the Lord be your guide and give you to that tremendous task.

"In the last place, woman's crowning glory is reached in her religious fidelity and devotion real. In nature woman is more tender than man, her feelings more tender, her sympathies more responsive and her love strong and true, has made her the pillar of faith in every church, inspired her to more sacrificial hopes more assuring. She knows no defeat, her cry is I will and let this be. She has proved the last hand into the background and has proved the most faithful handmaiden. She has lived in the heart of some poetic and sacred love. Where she is required she has actively begun.

"My observation has led me to believe that the women, as a general thing, are better judges of candidates and give more attention to measures and cast more intelligent votes than the average man of this country. GREAT BRITAIN ONLY AFTER FAIR DEAL IS REPORT OF BALDWIN

NOT HERE TO ASK FAVORS OR TO IMPOSE ON GENEROSITY

ARE SEEKING TO AVOID BUSINESS DISTURBANCE

Declares Government Expects to Repay Last Cent of Five Million It Is Due

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Great Britain wants a fair business settlement of her $5,000,000,000 war debt to the United States so such terms as will produce the least possible disturbance to the trade relations of the two countries, Stanley Baldwin, the British chancellor of the exchequer declared today at an address before the joint session of the British and American war funding commissions.

"We are not here to ask for favors or to impose on generosity," said Mr. Baldwin. "We want a fair business settlement, a settlement that will secure for America the repayment to the last penny of those credits which the United States government advanced to America during the war."

Mr. Baldwin's address was in reply to one of welcome by Secretary Mellon, chairman of the American commission, who expressed particular appreciation of the courtesy of the British government in having designated as its delegates men so distinguished. He pointed out that this was the first time a chancellor of the exchequer had left his country to participate in a mission of this character.

The treasury secretary assured the British representatives that the American commissioners were no less desirous than themselves to the virtual process of effecting a definite settlement upon a basis entirely just to both. He added that the prompt payment by Great Britain of one hundred million dollars of interest during the past three months, pending a final arrangement, was to his mind conclusive proof of the high spirit of financial integrity which he was proud to say had always animated both of the two English speaking nations.

Mr. Baldwin in his address expressed appreciation for the warmth and courtesy of the reception to the British delegation and continued in part:

"We meet today under extraordinary circumstances. We meet to settle the largest single financial transaction I believe, between two friendly nations, in the history of the world. We are here to arrange the terms of the payment of the British debt to the United States. That debt was contracted in a common cause.

First Contribution.

"It was the first contribution made by the United States to save civilization from being overrun.

"Then we were engaged in a common cause. We still have common economic interests. The payment of one debt to you involves much more than the transfer of a sum from London to Washington. It must affect the future well being of both countries and of their peoples.

"All the time these goods were bought we were advancing in a great war. Out of seven hundred million pounds worth of goods bought after the United States came into the war we paid for three hundred million pounds worth, leaving four hundred million pounds which were advanced on credit. Now, I say that this debt is a debt for goods supplied, it would be natural to ask, why not repay with goods? A moment's consideration is sufficient to answer that question. These goods were needed in war time and war prices. Prices have fallen so far that to repay four hundred million pounds worth of goods would have to send to America far greater bulk of goods than she originally purchased with the money lent and, having regard to considerations of the tariff and trade, it is impossible for America to accept repayment in kind from other manufacturing nations and, so I think, it would be a serious thing if we were to attempt to do so.

FRENCH TO ADVANCE ON ESSEN, GERMANY

other manner which may appear practicable.

Action of the administration in regard to the senate resolution favoring withdrawal of the American troops on the Rhine probably will be determined in the light of the effect such a withdrawal might have on later possible opportunities of reconciling French and British views on reparations. It has been indicated in every way by Secretary Hughes and other administration officials that the desire of the government was to maintain an attitude of complete friendliness toward all the allies.

If it appears that withdrawal of Major General Allen's command at this time would be interpreted in France as an expression of disapproval of the action of the French government, it seems very unlikely that the administration will order return of the forces of the United States.

It can be said that up to the moment of the Franco-British rupture on reparations plans at Paris the purpose of the Washington government in keeping American troops on the Rhine had little to do with the reparations question. Any change in policy will be the breaking up of the method of procedure which have caused has not received official attention in any way that would indicate that the matter is considered important. On the contrary, there is official warrant for the statement that withdrawal of the troops as a result of the French determination to proceed with reparations collection never has been discussed by the administration.

It could not be believed that movement of French forces into Germany through the Ruhr zone will create any difficulties for General Allen or for the American government. It is pointed out that orders which confined French detachments under General Allen's command to Coblenz to Cologne barracks in order to prevent friction with the German population had not originate with General Allen himself, but were merely a precautionary step on the part of the French military authorities. That General Allen observed the course goes without saying.

It seems not improbable that with French forces moving into Germany to enforce the presence of French troops on the streets to that neighborhood and mingling with the German civil population would result in minor incidents. To relieve General Allen of whatever embarrassment he might have in maintaining order, the French military authorities are said to have suggested that the French garrison at Coblenz remain in their barracks.

"COMMITTEES OF ACTION" FORMED BY COMMUNISTS

ESSEN, Jan. 5.—A permanent international committee of action, composed of 15 members on which Russia is represented, was formed by the communist party of the Ruhr district at the conclusion of its conferences here yesterday. An appeal was sent to the headquarters of labor organizations in the principal countries of Europe, including France, asking that the workers of all nations act together, the appeal ending as follows:

"Working men, the danger which threatens us is a serious one. Time is pressing. Working men to arms."

GOING AHEAD WITH PLAN FOR COERCIVE MOVEMENT

PARIS, Jan. 8.—The meeting of the reparations commission today to determine whether Germany defaulted in her deliveries of coal in 1922, found the French government going ahead with its plans for a coercive movement in the Ruhr valley. The plans themselves were still the property of high officials.

Louis Barthou, replying to Germany's objection that her experts might not reach Paris in time to appear before today's session of the commission, asserted that that body was not obligated to hear the German spokesman any way. It was regarded as certain, however, that the experts, Herr Wallmich, Herr and Herr Lubsen, would arrive in good time for the meeting.

While it was generally understood that the reparations commission would declare the Germans in default, at either the meeting today or tomorrow there remain a number of delicate points for the French to clear up before the plan to occupy the Ruhr basin can be put in operation.

EXPLOSION TUESDAY ON GERMAN COAL ISSUE

PARIS, Jan. 8.—The allied reparations commission gave the ten German coal experts headed by Herr Lubsen, chairman of the German delegation, a hearing today. These experts, the allies decided, should be given a chance to explain the action of the Germans in not delivering the quantities of coal demanded of them by the reparations commission. The experts presented their case in a lengthy document which they read to the commission. It consisted of a complete review of the history of the reparations question since the armistice, with special emphasis on the Versailles treaty provisions and the London ultimatum. The experts contended that Germany had fulfilled her obligations under the treaty and that the ultimatum was not in accordance with the treaty provisions.

The experts contended that the ultimatum was not in accordance with the treaty provisions. The experts contended that the ultimatum was not in accordance with the treaty provisions. The experts contended that the ultimatum was not in accordance with the treaty provisions.

TIMES DAILY MARKETS

COTTON MARKET

New York Cotton.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—The cotton market was influenced by the unfavorable view of European political conditions, relatively easy Liverpool cables and the weaker ruling of foreign exchanges rates at the opening today. First prices were easy at a decline of 20 to 35 points and while January stiffened up a few points during the early trading on covering, later months ruled about 20 to 27 points net lower under local Wall street selling and southern selling with March at 26.40 and May 26.37.

The later foreign rallies were not fully maintained but there appeared to be a little trade demand on setbacks to about 26.40 for March and the market was steady around 2 o'clock with active months about 15 to 25 points net lower.

The early selling movement sent prices off to 26.20 for March and 26.02 for May, or about 20 to 32 points net lower. The offerings of March, however, were absorbed by trade buying presumably to fix prices, while steady late rallies from Liverpool and encouraging Manchester advices seemed to be making a little fresh demand for the later months. Prices steadied up in consequence, recovering 10 to 20 points of their early losses but general business remained quiet and the tones were not fully maintained although the tone of the market was steady around midday.

Cotton closed steady.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE

CHICAGO, Jan. 8.—Although speculative buying carried wheat market upward in the early dealings today, the strength failed to last. The temporary display of bullish sentiment was based largely on estimates that 1,000,000 bushels for shipment to Europe had been bought in the southwest during the last few days. Inquietude, however as to financial and industrial consequences which might follow French occupation of the Ruhr led soon to increased selling and to new downturns in price. The opening, which ranged from a to ½ lower, May $1.17½ to a and July $1.10½ to ½, was followed by a moderate advance and then by a setback to slightly below Saturday's finish.

Prices continued to have a downward tendency later owing more or less to an increase of 2,909,000 bushels in the United States visible supply total. The close was unsettled at the same as Saturday's finish to ½ lower, May $1.17½ to a and July $1.10½ to ½.

Corn and oats swayed with wheat. After opening ½@¾c off, May 70½ to ¾, the corn market scored a little gain and then descended lower than before.

Country offerings remained light. Export demand was slow. The market finished unsettled at ¼ to ½ net decline with May 51½@½.

Hogs started mechanically ½ to ¼ higher, May 44 to ½, and later underwent something of a sag.

Downturns in the value of hogs weakened the provision market.

STOCKS AND FINANCIAL

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—Prices opened to sag at the opening of today's stock market on a resumption of Saturday's short selling and profit taking. Motor, oil and equipment shares were among the first to yield. Studebaker and Sears Roebuck each dropped a point and large fractional losses were recorded by Central Leather, Royal Dutch, Pan-American, and Tobacco Products.

Speculative selling spread over a much broader list before the end of the first hour. Chrysler broke 2½ points and losses of 1 to 11 took place in American Locomotive, Baldwin, Allis Chalmers, Chandler, Pan-American A and B, California Petroleum and Coca Cola. Large transactions were forced by the Pacific Gas, Junior Steel, Corn Products, United States Alcohol and Delaware and Hudson, the losses ranging from ½ to more than 1 point.

Indications that realizing sales were being well taken and the persistent rise in stocks in which pools are reputed to be operating caused the shorts to manifest some uneasiness and their buying was responsible for another upward turn in the market during the early afternoon. The demand for the recognized leaders was light but nevertheless Baldwin climbed to 134½ and Studebaker to 115. American Telephone and Telegraph was supplied freely and lost a point, while Woolworth was marked up 2½, California Petroleum and General Baking 2½, Wells Fargo Express and Steel and Tube preferred 3 and General American Tank, National Cloak and Suit, Eastman Kodak and General Cigar 2 points each.

The closing was firm. Sales approximated 750,000 shares.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Net earnings of approximately $20,000,000 by the Prairie Pipe Line company in 1922 on a capitalization of $27,000,000 were shown in testimony given at the senate oil investigation today by Clark H. Kounts of Independence, Kan., vice-president of the corporation.

These earnings, added to surplus of $35,359,000 on hand at the end of 1921, enabled the Prairie company to declare recently its stock dividend of 200 per cent, Mr. Kounts asserted.

MURPHY SAYS HE REQUIRES LARGER SPACE IN OFFICE

W. W. (Pat) Murphy, sheriff, requested the commissioners' court for larger office space stating that the present location is inadequate for the needs of his office.

The matter was placed before the county commissioners Monday and although no official action had been taken on the matter at a late hour it was understood that the plan was to move the offices of the county superintendent to the basement.

The county superintendent's office as it now stands, is adjacent to that of the sheriff and the plan is to include this space in the sheriff's office which will give Mr. Murphy two small additional rooms.

Shoes made from shark's hide may soon be on the market.

LIFE OF CHRISTIAN IS COMPARED WITH THE GRECIAN RACES

Rev. Barson's Sunday morning sermon was taken from Philippians, third chapter, fourteenth verse: "Brethren, I count not myself to have apprehended: but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before." Rev. Barson said:

St. Paul liked to compare the Christian life to the foot races for which the Grecian youth were famous. In these races the youth of that day flung themselves with all the energy and enthusiasm of which they were capable. Athletic contests particularly attracted all that was most ambitious and aspiring in the young men. These contests were generally free from demoralizing elements which quite frequently spoil the sport of our modern games, such as betting, gambling and crooked play. The prize for which they contended was of no intrinsic value worth. It was not gold, it was not silver. Only a crown of olive leaves, but it symbolized all that enters into the fiery blood of youth called honor, victory and mastery. Men who at other times seemed to lack the capacity for intense exertion, or suffering any sort of hardship, entered the lists and became possessed of a new nature. It gave them non-endurance, animating them with splendid enthusiasm, producing untiring energy, dogged determination and tenacity of purpose. St. Paul must have witnessed these games often and looked upon the runners as they whirled past in their strenuous effort to be first at the winning post.

You can picture the foot runner as the apostle saw him, with body bent forward, all the brain power in front, eyes fixed intently on the goal, so that he would not look back. If fire and whirlwind and all the furies, too, were pursuing him, he would hardly see them. He hears nothing but the shouts of the spectators urging him on, and onward he goes, never looking back, ever pressing toward until the end. And that, says the apostle, is the proper attitude for all who have received the heavenly calling—"forgetting the things which are behind, I press toward the goal."

Have we not in this figure the true attitude of every real Christian? The Christian life is a continual looking upward and pressing forward. It seems that no one could feel more poignantly than St. Paul, the bitter grief of memory, as regards personal wrong doing, and no one more than he could realize the absolute necessity of forgetting the past, if he was ever to go forward in the Christian life. Memory had for him an especially dark side. Can you conceive of a sharper spiritual pain than his memory of the martyrdom of Stephen? With what keen sorrow of heart he would recall the day when Stephen's face shone like the face of an angel, and with death-dealing stones flying about him the saint kneeled down and prayed, "Lord, lay not this sin to their charge." And there stood Paul consenting to his death. The sadness of such a memory! Or, when he asked letters to Damascus, that if he found any, whether men or women he might bring them bound into Jerusalem. The shame of such a record.

Regardless of his after life of devotion and service, do you imagine that St. Paul could think of these things and not despair? Why, the very thoughts were a torture. The recollection of that part of his life could never be otherwise. It was a part of the dead past. It could not be changed, therefore, let it be as though it were not. The thought of past weakness never adds anything to present strength. Therefore with St. Paul the things that were behind were to be forgotten.

But not alone the dark side of memory. The sin of the past, that must be forgotten. The apostle put also behind him the satisfaction of work accomplished. Many an individual loses present opportunity because his thought is occupied in the contemplation of what has been. Basking in the sunlight of past achievement, he forgets the present duty, the present obligation. I do not mean that we are to close our eyes to all that is past. Far otherwise. Who of us has not experienced the inspiration of joyful memory? Many a day, sombre and full of cloud has been filled with the sunlight of hope as we remembered the former times of victory and achievement; many a burden has been lightened in the thought of past days when came the inspirational consciousness that underneath were the everlasting arms; many are the discouragements; many are the trials; many are the disheartening circumstances of life which we have risen above as our thoughts bring back the memory of former times when "our Father's presence was so real as to rob all sorrow of its bitterness. We need the memory of the past; we need the inspiration of recollection; our hearts crave the remembrance of the days when the angel of His presence came to us with the mild and healing sympathy that steals away the sharpness ere we are aware, and yet in that very blessing there is danger.

The luxury of memory has proved many a man's undoing. He who lives in the past is dead to the present and therefore hopeless for the future. Against that tendency we need to be on guard. Our work is today; our duty reaches into the tomorrow. With St. Paul the satisfaction of work accomplished never hindered him to the things which were before, beckoning him onward. To live in the past means for him death for the present. Satisfaction with our work means stagnation of effort. Progress is always stimulated by prospect. The man who labors most effectually is the man whose eyes are toward the future. This was the apostle's philosophy throughout life. His epistles are full of it. He saw christianity as it was to be. The dale beginnings were discouraging enough, but he looked to the great fulfillment. Vision was his—that prophetic, far-reaching vision which can look forward with faith to the ultimate triumph of great principles which can see times not alone as they are, but as they will be, which views men not as they now are, but as they will be when God has worked out His full design in them. He looked not at the things seen and temporal, but at the things not seen and eternal. Behind all, and in all, and through all, was the eternal God, therefore the end, the goal of all things was glorious, and toward that goal he pressed with iron strength and sanguine hopefulness of character.

Now this philosophy of St. Paul's is the message I want you to get hold of as our New Year's word to you. To the individual and to the church comes this enthusiastic message to look onward, and upward, but not backward. "Forward" is the motto which the apostle gives us in Christ's name. No matter what the past has been, the future may be glorious.

This message comes to those of you who have labored faithfully and have done well, but in whose hearts there is perhaps the depressing consciousness that your efforts have been feeble and your spiritual growth slow, and the yielding to temptations many. But there must be no brooding over past failures. If we regard past mistakes it may be as fear to attempt new work. Ignore the failures; start again, trusting in the help of Christ who always answers with unexpected victories. You are on the threshold of renewed activities. The call to the work of the church is louder heard. There must be fresh consecration, new activities, new adventure. As I say these words, in your hearts perhaps are mingled feelings. Recollections, some pleasant, some painful, pass by in quick succession. Some of us entered last year with a definite task before us. It now lies unaccomplished, and some there are who feel the spiritual uplift through consecrated devotion to the church and its interests. I know they and it are the joy. And some of us look back perhaps upon a year in which we started out bravely, and [illegible] God. I know this, too, and it gives me pain. This in all our hearts there are different emotions. But whether sorrow or suffering predominate, or joy or delight are foremost, whether they are equally commingled or disproportionately combined; one thing is our common possession. We are conscious of our failures. We know that our relationship to God has not been as close as it might have been. Our lives might have been better, might have been holier; we might have been more consecrated. The past we cannot undo. Let us leave it there. Before us lies the future, bright with hopes, glorious in its possibilities. Accept its responsibilities and its blessed privileges with a new sense of its true meaning and value. Let the love of God be our desire; let the accomplishment of His will be our endeavor; let the fulfillment of His kingdom on earth be our continual prayer.

Let our watch word be, "Forward, upward, leaving and forgetting the things behind."

'COMMON GROUND, COMMON SENSE' IS SUNDAY'S SUBJECT

Sunday evening sermon by Mr. Lambreth, Hancock, First Christian church. The sermon in part is as follows: ...

"You have nearly known the meaning of common sense. On the spur of the moment you probably cannot define it, but if one really knows a thing what difference does it make? Early in your life you were probably informed without asking for the information, that common sense was something you didn't have. You acquired a somewhat negative idea of it as the boy did who said that common sense is "not putting grease in your hair." Gradually the true meaning of the term took shape in your mind without the aid of definitions, and you appreciated the old story of the boys who went horse back to the mill, picking up corn in every fold of the sack and a stone in the other end to balance it. Somebody with common sense took the stone out and divided the corn. All the adages, maxims, proverbs, saws, and sayings of the world are passed about through the ages and never die because each one is a world-wide experience compressed into a sentence of sense. The Book of Proverbs is the common sense treasury of the Old Testament. Common sense is the mind's balance wheel. It is the name we give to the quality of levelheadedness. It is somehow the mind's power of adaptability to see the right thing. It is the most uncommon sense.

Common ground is that place where those meet who lives are directed by common sense. Common ground means unity of purpose, understanding, fraternity, brotherhood, strength. It does away with jealousy, hate, superstition, misunderstandings. It brings unity, unity strength, strength power, power accomplishment, accomplishment victory, and victory reward—what else could we want?

The question I want to get before you then is this—Can you apply common sense and a common ground to religious faith? I find so many people bewildered at the numerous churches, and creeds and faiths—with each sect claiming itself right. Why the division? What's wrong? What is common sense about the situation? And I want to say that if believers of the Christian faith would use common sense, and seek a common ground upon which to stand—that the church would be as I have just mentioned.

There are four things which can be made common ground for God's people in the world and which if [illegible] would result in the [illegible] character caused another to say "He who steals my purse steals trash, but he who riches from me my good name takes that which enriches him and makes me poor indeed." Names are helping to divide the people of God. They are adopted by the birth of one or two more each year. We had enough with [illegible] and each label brings a wider division. God said "I will give my people a new name." "Christian" is a universally accepted and used name among the believers of Christ. Regardless of the church name, they call themselves "Christian." It is also scriptural. "The Disciples were called Christians first in Antioch." "Almost thou persuadest me to become a Christian." "If a man suffer as a Christian let him not be ashamed." The name constitutes common ground for God's people.

The second is a creed all can accept. Church history informs us that creeds have been made for the purpose of excluding all unorthodox opinions. And we have the Apostles' Apostolic confession, Nicean, Westminster, the 29 articles and what not. From the book we are told we must believe Christ. We are to make Christ the rule, pattern guide and [illegible] of our lives. If we believe Christ we believe all. It is [illegible] enough for God's people. It is the creed of the scriptures complete. If other creeds are more they are too much, if less they are too little, if different they are not right for the same they are not needed. The New Testament is the inspired and authorized statement of Him. Christ the Creed is common ground.

The third is a book all can accept. The world is the New Testament. The great inter-church controversy came about not because the denominations were trying to follow the Book but because they were selfishly trying to build up denominational walls. The New Testament is accepted and used by all our churches. We know Christ from its pages. It makes common ground for the believers—it is the only rule of faith and practice that should be used. Its acceptance as such would mean unity. But some one says "Christian unity is impossible." But Christ prayed for it. Another says "All cannot see alike." But Christ prayed for it. Another says "I do not believe in union." But Christ prayed for it. Another says "Well, it will never come to pass." But Christ prayed for it. And whatever Christ prayed for ought to be desired by anyone who really believes in Him.

The fourth is a Position all can be [illegible] upon. Common sense would lead us to see that we should [illegible] on or more. All insist on some form. The believer is commanded [illegible] but not. There is little common [illegible] in doing [illegible] when [illegible] the Lord's [illegible] today is by [illegible] of baptism and associate [illegible] in the church. Christ is greater than all our [illegible] and we need a [illegible] who are more [illegible] for Christ and and the Book than for denominationalism.

These four things constitute common sense, and can be realized with our activities and work directed by common sense. And with these four I would add yet another: "Fellowship with all God's people." If unity comes, we must practice the spirit of Christ and unity. We should love the brethren. We should work for unity, harmony, love, faith, trust in all. Suspicion and jealousy and backbiting is unchristian. These things breed trouble. I would plead for a common sense view of the religious world, and beg of you to help lead a divided army to a common ground, where in truth we could sing:

"Like a mighty army moves the church of God.
Brothers we are treading where the saints have trod.
We are not divided—all one body we—
One in faith and doctrine, one in charity—
Onward Christian soldiers.

SPLENDID MUSICAL PROGRAM THURSDAY AT FLORAL HEIGHTS

[illegible] of some interest to the congregation of the Floral Heights Methodist church is an interesting program to be put on Thursday evening, January 11, under the auspices of the board of stewards.

A splendid musical program has been provided. Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Kennedy, evangelistic singers of Greenville, Texas, have provided the following as their program:

"Prayer," Mr. Lowell H. D. Ackleyr, tenor, R. J. Kennedy.

"Yes, I know," F. M. Lehmann, bass, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Kennedy.

"No Disappointment in Heaven" (F. M. Lehmann), duet Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Kennedy.

"These are wonderful singers," said Dr. Barrett. "They were at our conference and proved a great treat and nobody will be disappointed in hearing them."

H. E. Stout, president of the Texas Woman's College, Fort Worth, is sending an able man, Prof. R. C. Forman, to be the speaker of the evening. "He is not the head of our department of expression," said Dr. Stout, "but he has done a great deal of platform work. He is really a specialist in the O. Henry story."

Other features are in course of preparation and will be announced later. The meeting will begin promptly at 7:30 p. m. and everyone is cordially invited to attend.

OFFICIALS SEARCH FOR HUSBAND OF MRS. KEMP WHOSE BODY IS FOUND

DAYTON, OHIO, J. 1. 8.—Montgomery officials were searching for John Kamp, alias Sambo, whom they wish to question in connection with the murder of his wife, Mrs. Eve Kamp, 54, whose body was found wrapped in a quilt under a bed at their home in Beavertown, near here, yesterday. Her skull had been crushed by blows from a hammer, according to officials.

Kamp had been arrested on a statutory charge in connection with the delinquency of a young girl who had been staying in his home. This arrest was made before the murder was discovered, but Kamp escaped.

France now has 2714 locomotives, 2764 passenger cars, and 49,134 freight cars.

Bronner Describes First Dose of Coueism

By MILTON BRONNER

NANCY, FRANCE, Jan. 8.—The gentle art of the autosuggestion doctor of Nancy is a lot that there is no pre-[illegible]

When you come here to Nancy to attend his meetings, you simply have to make up your mind to throw reserve into the dust heap.

He shows private appointments. He doesn't like to treat one patient alone. He prefers to have them all in one crowd where he can speak to all of them at the time.

There is a sense of crowd psychology in getting us all together. It makes us act and react upon each other.

At any rate, Nancy clinic is a medical confessional in which we confess our physical ills, not only for Monsieur Coue to hear but for all the others present to hear.

Once in a while there is an exception. If some one is suffering from something that it would cause real embarrassment to discuss aloud the patient is [illegible] write down what [illegible] him or her and hand it [illegible]

Then he bids us close our eyes and keep them closed [illegible] orders us to open them.

He assures us he will not put us to sleep.

There is to be no attempt at hypnotism.

He tells us that in each of us there is a conscious and an unconscious self. If we compare them we find that while the conscious self has a very unreliable memory, our unconscious self has a really marvelous memory which registers even without our will, the slightest events, the most unimportant facts of our lives. Furthermore, it is scrupulous and accepts without reasoning what it is told.

Matter of Belief.

Our unconscious self presides over the functioning of our organs by means of the brain, a conscious organ. If it believes a certain function well or badly it does really then function well or badly.

This unconscious self not only presides over the functions of our organism but over the accomplishment of all our actions.

This unconscious self is called imagination and it works as well in opposition to our will. In every conflict between will and imagination, the latter always wins.

Creates an Appetite.

Skin Ablaze with Eczema

Constant Itching Almost Unbearable!

We know there is one thing that stops eczema, and that is more red-blood-cells! S. S. S. builds them by the million! You can increase your red-blood cells to the point where it is practically impossible for eczema to exist. We know that as blood-cells increase in number, blood impurities vanish! We also know that night follows day. Both are facts! But have you, eczema sufferers, ever actually taken advantage of this wonderful fact? Thousands just like you have never thought about it! Skin eruptions, eczema with all its fiery, skin-digging torture and its self-testing, unreachable itching, pimples, blackheads and boils, they all pack up and go, when the tide of blood-cells begins to roll in! Blood-cells are the fighting-giants of nature! S. S. S. builds them by the million! It has been doing it since 1826! S. S. S. is one of the greatest blood-cell builders, blood-cleansers and body-builders known to us mortals! When you put these facts together,—then to continue to have eczema and skin eruptions looks more like a sin than a disease. Mrs. Arthur N. Sighth, Pearl St., Newark, Ohio, writes: "My little girl had a very bad case of eczema. She began taking S. S. S. and is well now. I thank you very much. I tell my friends what a good medicine it is. I cannot talk too much about it, for I know it is O. K."

Here is your opportunity. S. S. S. contains only vegetable medicinal ingredients. Because S. S. S. does build red-blood-cells, it roots rheumatism, builds firm flesh, fills out hollow cheeks, beautifies the complexion, builds you up when you are run-down. S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores, in two sizes. The larger size bottle is the more economical.
